V. Policies Related to Forced Labour and Child Labour

Schuler uses ANDRITZ's Code of Conduct and Ethics, which requires all personnel to adhere to the highest levels of ethics and integrity in all of their business activities. This includes compliance with applicable laws and legal standards, and the responsibility to maintain a safe, healthy, and respectful work environment. A fundamental principal of the Code of Conduct and Ethics is that personnel treat each other with respect, dignity, and fairness – and to protect human rights in their daily business activities. Employees receive compliance training during their onboarding and periodic communications explaining their responsibility to act ethically and in compliance with the law.

The company's commitment to protecting human rights is further demonstrated in the ANDRITZ Supplier Code of Conduct and Ethics Policy and Supplier Code of Conduct and Ethics, which Schuler Inc. requires all new suppliers to agree to. The Supplier Code of Conduct and Ethics, which addresses a range of topics including human rights and fair working conditions, sets forth the minimum requirements for any third-party vendor or supplier engaged to transact business with ANDRITZ, and its affiliated entities, like Schuler. For example, the Code specifically requires vendors or suppliers to refrain from engaging in, or benefiting from, any form of forced, involuntary or child labour. These vendors and suppliers are also required to acknowledge and adhere to the principles articulated in the Supplier Code of Conduct and Ethics. This includes the commitment that these vendors or suppliers request the same, or similar, compliance standards from their business partners.

To build a more transparent, safe, and ethical workplace, Schuler Inc. uses a highly secure whistleblowing system known as "Speak Up!". This online reporting tool allows employees and third-party business partners to report instances of actual or suspected misconduct to Group Compliance in a safe and confidential manner. The Speak Up! reporting tool can be accessed online and by QR code.

VI. Due Diligence Process Related to Forced Labour and Child Labour

Vendors and suppliers are screened through a prequalification and onboarding process. This process includes the completion and evaluation of a detailed Prequalification Questionnaire. The questionnaire addresses a range of topics including human rights and fair working conditions. In some instances, there will also be an on-site audit of the vendor or supplier if needed. The results of the vendor and supplier evaluation will determine whether the potential business partner may be engaged and/or whether any additional controls are needed to mitigate any risk.

VII. Risk of Forced Labour and Child Labour

Schuler evaluates supplier compliance risk, through its supplier quality assurance department, which may from time to time, conduct random technical checks and audits. In addition, the information collected from its Prequalification Questionnaire and onboarding process is used to identify risks in its supply chain.

VIII. Remediation

Schuler has not identified any instances of forced labour or child labour in its business activities or supply chains. Accordingly, Schuler has not had cause to implement any forced labour or child labour related remediation measures.

IX. Training

ANDRITZ provides training on the ANDRITZ Code of Conduct and Ethics, which all Schuler employees are required to complete. This training module addresses human rights issues and the importance of treating employees and third-party business partners fairly and with integrity and respect. ANDRITZ tracks completion of this training on a regular basis.

ANDRITZ has also developed a training module on the Supplier Code of Conduct and Ethics, which is available to employees and third-party vendors and suppliers on a voluntary basis.

X. Assessing Effectiveness

Schuler places responsible business conduct into policies and management systems, as well as screening potential suppliers for possible risks and adverse impacts on operations. Schuler works with suppliers to measure the effectiveness of their actions to address ethical considerations, and if necessary, to address forced labour and child labour, including tracking relevant and applicable performance indicators. In addition, Schuler tracks the number of reports alleging supplier-related misconduct (including the use of forced and child labour) through “Speak Up!” and other internal reporting tools.
